KARBULLAH MERINO STUD

Some pointers from the team at Karbullah

- When choosing your rams, always remember that each ram will have an effect on your flock for at least 7 years directly, as you will use him for at least 3 years and his daughters for another 4 years.
- When choosing for CFW always remember that it takes energy to produce that extra fleece weight. Keep that in mind as more lambs will produce you much more fleece than any extra CFW will.
- Muscle, fat and ERA have the biggest effect on the Dams ability to successfully birth and raise lambs. As the ability to store energy for lambing is highly connected to three traits this should be your first port of call when choosing a ram.
- Have fun in choosing your ram and we would love to see you on sale day. If you are unable to make it we are making your buying experience as easy as possible with videos, photos and a ClassiMate physical assessment that you can access through stocklive.com.au. Find our sale catalogue, click on the wool photo for each lot and you will find all the details there.

KARBULLAH POLL MERINOS

WELCOME

A 'next generation' Merino stud, Karbullah Poll Merinos, is eagerly preparing for its on-farm ram sale with its own 'personal touch'.

John Kennedy, commercial sheep and cattle operator at Uralla, NSW says "In terms of doability, ease of shearing, worm tolerance, fertility and big cuts of quality white wool, they have ticked all of the boxes." "Always keen to buy Karbullah blood sheep."

A highlight for John is "Karbullah's are big-bodied sheep with a long white staple of wool that can handle heavy rainfall" he added, "I've noticed their ewes are very fertile and are excellent mothers."

"At the end of the day, the Karbullah bloodline makes a very generous return on invested capital."

Mark and Vicki Murphy established the dual-purpose Merino stud in 2001, situated 70km north of Goondiwindi. Approximately 1100 stud and commercial ewes and 300 rams are produced on Karbullah, an 8000 acres Brigalow and Belah property, for the annual sale.

The team primarily focus on producing merino with high productivity traits with superior wool and unique carcass characteristics, strong fertility and survival instincts. A proud yet subtle trait of their merino flock is that their ewes have not been chemical drenched as a mob since 1992, nor mulesed since 2004.

Our goal for the past 25 years has been to breed a dual-purpose merino with attributes that make them productive and money makers whilst being a "green" sheep. There are many other traits which are clients are reaping rewards as well as the actions happening in the paddock.

Also, the Murphy's have sold their sheep meat products to butcher shops for 6 years gaining valuable carcass information for the package of dual purpose Merinos.

Once their stud was registered in 2001, Mark and Vicki were exposed to cutting-edge genetics from fellow SRS studs through the guidance of Dr Jim Watts. Since his passing, a group of breeders have continued to combine their values and kindship. The journey enabled Mark and Vicki and team to benchmark, push genetic gains, and increase accuracy along with SRS studs and clients to produce the "Next Generation" merino.

John Kennedy, Uralla also commented that from the thousands of sheep traded said

"Karbullah sheep have been the best of them"
